

Generation Y/Z – Second Chance On-Line Opportunities for the Development of Learning for Engagement

About the project:

Youth professionals are key to combatting social and economic exclusion of young people, and providing them with the necessary skills to re-engage with the communities and society. GenY/Z-SCOODLE is an EU-funded project aiming to build sustainable solutions in order to upgrade the capacity of youth professionals and organisations, through state-of-the-art Second Chance Education (SCE) methods and tools.

The GenY/Z-SCOODLE Project is bringing together youth professionals and adult educators on designing processes and developing tools and resources, with the aim to build collaborative learning ecosystems to re-engage the hard-to-reach young people.

Where are we now?

The “Youth SCE Tutor Professional Competence Framework and Accreditation Scheme” is ready!

The “Youth SCE Tutor Professional Competence Framework and Accreditation Scheme” is an online resource that will strengthen the professional awareness and capacity building of youth workers and other youth professionals. It aims to effectively provide those working in the field with competence enhancement through in-service (on-the-job) training and professional development, in order to eventually contribute to the capacity building of the youth (social) inclusion settings around Europe and internationally.

What does the Competence Framework include?

- A description of broad number of tasks to be delivered by the youth workers and tutors
- A set of corresponding competences (skills & knowledge) to be acquired at a significant level for an adequate performance of these tasks
- A set of learning outcomes which will identify what the practitioners will do to demonstrate and evidence their competencies, together with an e-portfolio solution, where practitioners can evidence their competence development, through self-reflection and open recognition practice
- A set of guidelines on how to develop “accreditation schemes” for the Youth SCE Tutors (Teachers & Trainers)

The “Youth SCE Tutor Professional Competence Development Courseware” - A Courseware Quality Framework

The GenY/Z-SCOODLE partners have also developed a Courseware Quality Framework, containing quality benchmarks in terms of learning objectives, learning sessions and learners’ participation, and an online environment for the youth workers’ on-the-job competence development, with learning materials and courses.

While the Youth SCE Tutor Professional Competence Framework corresponds to the aims of the youth workers’ professional development and the youth centers’ innovation capacity building, the Competence Development Courseware Framework comes to serve the means for on-the-job and on-the-fly development and delivery of tailored learning experiences and courses, in order to achieve those aims regarding competencies’ development.
